BLAINE ON THE STUMP.

Twenty-five Thousand Yankees Hear the Maine Man

Make one of the Closing Arguments of the Campaign.

Democratic Inconsistencies in Treating the West Incident.

The Minister in the Scale Against the Irish Vote.

Blaine in Connecticut.

NORWICH, Conn., November 1.—An enthusiastic crowd of 25,000 people gathered at Williams park to-day to hear J. G. Blaine speak upon the issues of the campaign. The crowd had come from all surrounding points, and a large portion of it from Rhode Island. When the orator mounted the stand and presented himself at the rail he was cheered by thousands, who, when he had begun to speak, were too far away to hear him. Yet who cheered vigorously when the others cheered. After discussing the tariff question Mr. Blaine said:

I have read the speech by Mr. Bayard, secretary of state. Mr. Bayard is a peculiar gentleman. [Laughter.] He is a gentleman of very high sentiments. In fact he thinks there is nobody who speaks the English language, so far as I know, since Joseph Surface, who has so fine sentiments as Mr. Bayard. [Laughter.] Mr. Bayard's speech is devoted to the wicked conspiracy of the republicans. They have all taken that word. Mr. Thurman has taken that word. The wicked conspiracy of the republicans that entrapped Lord Sackville into writing a letter [applause], and he calls down the wrath of the country upon those most wicked conspirators that got up the letter that fatal Sackville answered. Now, I must say Mr. Bayard puts himself in a very peculiar position, because if there were a wicked conspiracy of leading republicans to entrap Lord Sackville into writing an imprudent letter, those conspirators ought to have been punished, but instead of that he punishes Lord Sackville. He says: Here is a most unprincipled monstrous conspiracy against this man, and in consequence of this conspiracy of which I cannot get the authors I will send Lord Sackville back home and make him bear the sins of these conspirators. That is a very remarkable statement. They acknowledge that they were not quick to do it, but after ten days, and after they had received scores of telegrams from all parts of the country that if they did not start Lord Sackville the Irish vote would start. [Laughter.] Then Lord Sackville had to go. It would be an admirable thing in England to Lord Salisbury, the prime minister, to know that President Cleveland's administration deliberately weighed Lord Sackville against the Irish vote and started him. [Applause.]

I have another paper here speaking of conspiracies and wicked things, the World, which I believe is counted a good democratic organ. It is opposing Abram Hewitt, and this morning it reproduced the Morey letter which was forged eight years ago against the lamented President Garfield when he was the republican candidate, and now the World is helping Mr. Hewitt because he said it was a true letter and aided in putting the forgery into circulation. That is very [illegible]. [Laughter and applause.] It opposes Abram Hewitt for mayor of New York because Mr. Hewitt lent his name as endorser of a rascally scheme of publishing a forged letter against the republican candidate. Now, gentlemen, there is a good old adage which I would not wish to quote about somebody falling out and honest men getting their dues, but I did not expect to live to see the day when one section of the democratic party would want to swear off the responsibility of the Morey letter upon another. There it stands the audacious forgery reproduced—and one of the democrats who gave his high reputation and high character to put it into circulation was Abram Hewitt, and it rises up against him now, not from republicans but from other democrats and when the democrats all get to exposing each other [applause] that will be a terrible day. If they do that the republicans would not need to have stump speeches or mass meetings or flags or any other paraphernalia to carry on the election. The operation would carry on itself.

Speaking of Mr. Bayard's portion in regard to Lord Sackville he said: The democratic party never has conducted the affairs of the country with Great Britain with dignity or with advantage to their country, never and if you will contrast the administration of General Grant and of Abraham Lincoln in the conduct of affairs with Great Britain with what has been done by democrats you would ask no other issues. We owe to the democratic party and to its bad diplomacy the loss of British Columbia that vast province to the Pacific coast which would give us the entire coast from Behring's strait down to the Gulf of California. To the bad diplomacy and surrender of the democratic party we owe the reciprocity treaty of 61, in which we got about one article to forty as compared with Canada in a reciprocity treaty which was 20 degrees on one side which was our opponents and one degree on our side. We owe that to them. In fact it is not in the power of the democratic party to give a single treaty or diplomatic procedure they have made with Great Britain which redounds to the honor of this country. Now when General Grant was our president he had the most embarrassing, difficult, trying, the most delicate question in the world to settle with Great Britain the question of the Alabama claims. The democratic party could not have settled those claims but gentleman Grant's administration settled them with honor to the country with peace between both countries and with the mutual respect of both countries. The democratic party in the first place has klootched with Great Britain and then surrendered. The republican party never klootched and never had anything to surrender. [Applause.] They have always conducted themselves with dignity. They have maintained the honor of the country and have had respect from their opponents. They have never sought war with Great Britain never, and when they agreed with Great Britain and I make Great Britain agree to it that we would submit the claims of the Alabama to arbitration we gained not only a victory for ourselves but we gained a victory for all humanity and we did more than any other nation in the nineteenth century to bring to a close the bloody arbitration of the world. We did

Changes on the Q.

CHICAGO, November 1.—H. B. Stone has been appointed second vice president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy system. L. P. Rogers succeeds Mr. Stone as general manager of the C. B. & Q. case of the Missouri river. The changes took effect to-day.

In announcing the changes the [illegible] prints the following: The second [illegible] by Mr. Stone on the labor question [illegible] said to have had nothing to [illegible] during the recent [illegible] duties in this connection during the strike which first produced or engendered some extent decided [illegible] in authority. At the same time it [illegible] belief of many observers that [illegible] the change will have no effect of [illegible] quarters on account of the [illegible] the most essential duties the [illegible] with the force [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] that is not yet definitely settled.

Authors of the Murchison Letter.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., November 1.—Frederick P. Burgess, who has just arrived from Mexico, states that while there he met General Count Manuel Mendoza, ex-President Pinney of the late republic of Sonora and the Murchison for several weeks past had been on most intimate terms with them. The two former took occasion to be referred to in political [illegible] to break out over the democratic party, but it was only after the publication of the West letter that they made any admissions regarding it. It then transpired that the letter was really written by Mr. Chacon at the direction of Count Mendoza and Pinney. Five letters in all were received from prominent men in the east. The British minister was the only one who replied. Burgess says he does not understand why the names of some of the conspirators of the scheme have not been learned before this.

Notes from the Ring.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 1.—Articles of agreement were signed at the rooms of the California Athletic club last night for a fight on November 29 between John H. Hasselle of Boston and Tommy Warren of this city. Battle weights for a purse of a thousand dollars.

ST. PAUL, November 1.—Pat Killen and Mick McCaffrey, who is on the way to the Pacific coast. The fight is to be fifteen rounds for $1500 a side, and 75 and 25 per cent of the receipts. Time and place not determined.

NEW YORK, November 1.—Tommy Flannigan of Cincinnati and Pete McCabe of Albany, fought a desperate battle of ten rounds at City Island last night. Flannigan was declared the victor after almost demolishing McCabe. The battle was watched toward the finish that many spectators turned their heads to avoid the sickening sight. Just before the close of the seventh round McCabe had the misfortune to take a swallow of ammonia which his trainer gave him by mistake for brandy. It seriously injured his chances.

The Public Debt.

WASHINGTON, November 1.—Public debt statement: Interest bearing debt—principal, $668,129,282, interest $2,109,196, total $695,292,478. Debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $2,528,797, debt bearing no interest, $725,635,949, total debt $1,703,457,224, total debt less available cash items $1,311,782,005. Debt less cash in the treasury November 1st $1,137,991,036, debt less cash in treasury October 1st, $1,141,877,655, decrease of debt during the month $3,886,619, decrease of debt since June 30 1888 $28,291,620. Total cash in treasury as shown by the treasurer's general account, $634,301,487.

Fatal Collision at Sea.

NEW YORK, November 1.—Captain Kennedy, of the ship Creedmoor, from Manila reports that on September 9th she fell in with the ship Ardenaple, which was in distress having collided with the ship Earl Wemyss. The latter sank, carrying down sixteen passengers. Thirty others were rescued and taken on board the Ardenaple. The latter vessel was found to be unsafe, and the crews of both vessels were taken on board the Creedmoor, except Captain Gaither of the Ardenaple who decided to stay by his ship. The shipwrecked crews were landed at the Barbadoes.

A Murderer's Terrible End.

DENVER, November 1.—On Monday James Longcouth, bartender of a north side saloon, had some words with A. A. Cass over the price of drinks. Cass was ordered from the saloon and as he was passing out of the door Longcouth shot him dead. The murderer was arrested and jailed. Since his incarceration he has been suffering from nervous prostration and this morning was taken with convulsions and died in terrible agony, imagining that the murdered man was torturing him. Longcouth was one of the three members of the New Orleans police force who escaped the ravages of cholera in that city in 1876.

Captain Kidd's Treasure.

FALL RIVER, Mass., November 1.—James M. Eddy of Holbrook, R. I. has unearthed two Spanish doubloons in his back yard and calculates that there are millions on his farm. His father was lieutenant governor of Rhode Island. One of his ancestors was killed with Captain Kidd, a return to the Horseneck farm and stored away the doubloons. Among his papers was a chart. Last night Eddy and Lee dug over the spot designated on the paper came at the same time to the farm thought it worth trying.

A Loan Quickly Taken.

NEW YORK, November 1.—Subscriptions for $1 000,000 Union Pacific Denver & Colorado railway first mortgage bonds guaranteed by the Union Pacific closed abruptly yesterday by a dispatch from London which stated that the amount had been taken. The success of the loan is remarkable in view of the efforts made against the legality of the issue.

Chinese in Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., November 1.—The Chinese exclusion bill is causing much suffering to Chinese who are detained at the British Columbian boundary line while on their way back to the United States after visiting China. The Chinese in many instances are penniless, but Canadian authorities insist on the collection of $50 a head from all who remain on British soil.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

Sherman Opens his Indiana Campaign at Portland.

People of Surrounding Counties Form a Great Audience.

Democratic Promises and Democratic Acts Contrasted.

Cleveland Issues his Proclamation for National Thanksgiving.

Sherman's Canvass.

PORTLAND, Ind., November 1.—Senator John Sherman and party arrived in this city at 10:30 this morning. [illegible] Hotel. [illegible] Democratic [illegible] whether Hon. Monroe Wilson would [illegible] Bagley to the position of traffic manager or remain at the head of the Toledo [illegible] partment. He seems to be very sure that he will get the traffic settled.

Authors of the Murchison Letter.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., November 1.—Frederick P. Burgess, who has just arrived from Mexico, states that while there he met General Count Manuel Mendoza, ex-President Pinney of the late republic of Sonora and the Murchison for several weeks past had been on most intimate terms with them. The two former took occasion to be referred to in political [illegible] to break out over the democratic party, but it was only after the publication of the West letter that they made any admissions regarding it. It then transpired that the letter was really written by Mr. Chacon at the direction of Count Mendoza and Pinney. Five letters in all were received from prominent men in the east. The British minister was the only one who replied. Burgess says he does not understand why the names of some of the conspirators of the scheme have not been learned before this.

I will tell you why. I will [illegible] some of you and tell you [illegible] do not correct me, why was [illegible] In the first place they said the republican party had locked up [illegible] in the treasury that we had kept it idle and off in the circulation of the people, and that they would [illegible] whatever they got hold of. [Cheers.] They said [illegible] service was unnecessary and [illegible] and taken care of. They were going to turn the rascals out—they were going to have civil service reform. They [illegible] and that if they got into power they would hound you to [illegible] and would not [illegible] you so much.

Did they point out that money that was in the treasury? No, not any country-man, they went on as campaigning. When the democratic party went into power we had about $100,000,000 kept there to pay current expenses of the nation and to maintain the credit of the country and to redeem bonds, etc. We had [illegible] subscriptions to the national banks [illegible] quarters on account of the [illegible] the money of the nation. It was held in trust for private individuals and they had gold and silver and greenbacks for it. Here is the statement of the secretary of the treasury. It shows that the amount on hand now is $200,000,000.06. That is $92,000,000 more than was in before the democratic party.

I say they promised civil service reform. They were going to turn the rascals out. What rascals did they find to turn out? I say and I say upon my own responsibility, that Grover Cleveland never pretended to call [illegible] the many men that he turned out of office to put democrats in. Postmasters, the highest officer under his control. How it will be on the fourth of March when Ben Harrison gets in, I could not say so well.

There is another thing. They said they would be economic—save your money. What is the result? It is shown by the statistics of the last four years of democratic administration that they cost the people $90,000,000 more than the last four of republican administration.

I say now that not a single claim has been [illegible] that was promised in 1884.

Mr. Sherman then went on and discussed at some length the Mills bill and tariff, and he closed in an eloquent appeal to Hoosier voters in behalf of Benjamin Harrison. He was frequently applauded throughout and has made a favorable impression. Mr. Sherman will speak in Indianapolis this evening.

The only enemies that Mr Cooper has made are those which every honest man should make.

Mr. Cooper will carry the state by a handsome majority. As governor he will give us a clean, honest and able administration.

At the fifteenth annual meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance union in New York a few days ago Miss Frances E. Willard was re-elected president. This is her tenth election and is a deserved tribute to a splendid woman. We have delayed in the recommendations that this organization has made regarding the third party. But no one can give a casual glance at the work now being performed by this society, without being impressed with its usefulness. Its most useful work is in educating public sentiment to temperance ideas. A very interesting incident occurred to some Americans who went to hear Canon Farrar a few Sundays since preach on "temperance." In the party was a very near relative of Miss Willard. Canon Farrar did not know this fact, and in the course of his remarks spoke of the work done by the Woman's Christian Temperance union and of the great success which Miss Willard has performed as its president. He spoke of Miss Willard as doing more good than any other woman living and one that he would feel honored and pleased to meet.

With the tide steadily drifting against them our democratic friends grow desperate. The closing days of the campaign bring the usual crop of infamous democratic schemes to get votes by foul means which they have failed to get by fair ones. A letter alleged to be from Col Dudley, treasurer of the republican committee, containing instructions to the republicans of Indiana advising the use of questionable methods to carry the state for Harrison, is being industriously circulated by the democratic press. The author of the letter has openly violated the Election law and if Colonel Dudley is the man he has made himself liable to severe punishment. The democrats have therefore a quick and sure means of redress. The arrest and conviction of a prominent member of the republican national committee for so flagrant violation of the election laws would be a very effective move at the close of the campaign. The reason that this move is not made is because the letter is a forgery throughout and Colonel Dudley has promptly pronounced it so. This is but one to catch votes and to slander and it will prove a failure and the democrats will have to resort to a new one.

The new ... will be opened on or about November 1 and will undoubtedly fill a want ... has existed for some years ... the interests of our thriving city. ... and suitable stables will be fitted up in the old Presbyterian church building which has been leased for the purpose and thoroughly ...
